

Llama Rental Reservation Form 2020

The Basics

Lander Llama Company recommends that the llama rental program is for experienced high alpine back country travelers. The llama rental program is NOT a guided trip and does not include the benefits of a guided trip. We provide the pack llamas and their essential gear including saddles and packs. You are responsible for your own camping equipment, and wilderness itinerary. We provide, for a fee, transportation for the rented llamas to your desired trailhead. We do not have the capacity to haul people and camping gear to the trailheads. We have a strict cancellation policy and highly recommend communication with all of your group participants.

Rates

Rates are $75.00/day for each llama. There is a minimum 2 llama, 3 day rental.

Training Session

There is a mandatory training session for first time handlers at Lander Llama Company's ranch. The training sessions last 3 hours and are held any day before your departure. You may start or join in any scheduled training session during the season. The cost is $30 per adult for two or more adults (12 and older may pay and take the course). No unsupervised children may take the training course. The training sessions are scheduled at 4:00 P.M., any day. Training sessions will not be held at trailheads. Repeat trained customers, in the last two years, can have a "refresher" training at their chosen trail head, and is not structured for new handlers of the llamas.

Llama Shuttle

We offer a trailhead llama drop off and pick up service predominately on the eastern side of the Wind River Range. Drop off and pick up fees for the llamas can range from $80.00 to $350.00 round trip in most areas, with a possible 10% fuel surcharge. Drop off and pick up fees can be customized to other parts of Wyoming, where authorized. We drop off your llamas at your desired trailhead at 9:00 A.M. and pick them up on your return date at 4:00 P.M. Handlers must be at the trailheads for receiving and returning the llamas to Lander Llama Company at the above times. You may transport your rented llamas on your own with pre-approved transportation vehicles and scheduled contractual pick-up/drop-off times for a fee of $50.
